E-1987845 - In 2101 first contact was made with an odd alien being who claimed that he came to Earth just to enter the World Series of Poker tournament. The alien being called himself Jim, and became known for going all in on low-percentage hands and statistically speaking would not lose. Some speculated the alien had an unfair advantage because of his robotic enhancements that were unknown to the humans among other things, but Jim scoffed at the idea and claimed he was on a 174-year winning streak and that he was the luckiest being in the galaxy.

Although Jim was not perfect as some players knew - if he was intoxicated he would tend to lose focus but Jim wouldn't buy his own drinks and therefore it would cost other players a fortune considering the bar tab and the amount of booze Jim could drink before even feeling a buzz.

Won 22 bracelets since arriving
Granted citizenship in exchange for his alien tech
Claims he learned poker from a cowboy his uncle
