E-444777 - Jebothiah was the first bot accepted into the Amish community in 2204 when a plague almost wiped out the entire community sector in Pennsylvania. He worked nonstop attending the crop fields and maintaining the farm animals while displaying honor in their core values because of this Jebothiah was baptized and is now a deacon in the church.

In 2216, Jebothiah became famous when the bot broke the record for the biggest watermelon ever grown. The watermelon weighed in at a staggering 635 pounds and promptly incurred an investigation by the FDA. A smear campaign took place to discredit the loyal Amish bot of his achievement by other sectors of the Amish community but in reality, it was all just a conspiracy by the federal government to find out how Jebothiah grew one giant-sized fruit that could feed thousands.

Jebothiah wrote a best seller called Melancholy Converted 16 more bots since his conception
